POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

What's in a name? That which we call a rose,
By any other name would smell as sweet.

Thus spake William Shakespeare, back in the merry days before popular elections, but if the immortal bard took wing from his celestial abode and dropped into Los Angeles to cast a ballot at California's May primary, he would probably rue the day he said it.

For while the state at large is holding an election on May 16, Los Angeles county, with its big voting army, is staging an electoral battle of names that smells anything but sweet—at least to the candidates and voters involved.

On one and the same ballot, Los Angeles county voters will be puzzled to find the names of Fred Houser and Fred Howser — one running for U. S. senator, the other for district attorney.

If that confuses them, and they take a look at the other candidates, again they may think they are seeing double, for there's a Dockweiler running for U. S. senator—and another Dockweiler running for district attorney.

The Dockweiler seeking election to the United States senate is Mrs. Irene Dockweiler, widow of John F. Dockweiler, who was district attorney at the time of his death a year ago, while the Dockweiler now running for district attorney is Henry I. Dockweiler, his brother. And the Houser seeking to be U. S. senator is Lt.-Gov. Fred Houser, while the Howser running for district attorney is the incumbent, Fred Howser—the two gentlemen being unrelated, even though they appear to be almost identical twins on the ballot.

While this merry mixup may seem, at first glance, to be more amusing than important, actually it may have a vital bearing on the political fortunes of all the candidates involved—and on the outcome of both the state-wide race for the U. S. senate, and the Los Angeles county contest to select a county prosecutor. If some unkind opponent hurls a brick at District Attorney Howser, for example, who can explain it away if it dents the political sombrero of Senatorial-Candidate Houser? And the same might apply in the case of the Dockweilers.

To Lt.-Gov. Fred Houser, making his bid to be U. S. senator, the confusion might well prove to be serious, for his chief strength is in his home county of Los Angeles and he must pile up a decisive victory there to have any chance to win. On the other hand, his outstanding opponent for the Republican senatorial nomination — Justus Craemer, the Orange county publisher—is strong both in rural California and in the San Francisco bay area and is free of name entanglements. Craemer's friends, as a matter of fact, are capitalizing on his name with the slogan: "Let's Have Justus in Washington."

All of which proves that maybe there's something in a name after all—Shakespeare to the contrary, notwithstanding.

It is urgently requested that all items to be published in the Campbell Press to be in the office by Wednesdays not later than 5 p. m., if possible, due to rearrangement of time schedules of the staff. Time limits the amount of items that can be set up on Thursday.

Mrs. W. Williams New President Grammar P.-T. A.

The Campbell Grammar School P.-T. A. had its regular monthly meeting March 7 at 2:30 p. m. in the auditorium.

The meeting was called to order with the pledge of allegiance and singing "America" under the direction of Miss Wilma Rothwell, music chairman. The 8th grade sang three numbers a cappella with Miss Patricia Matranga directing.

President Mrs. C. P. Klassen called for introduction of new members and welcomed all present, and read an appropriate poem. The unit voted an additional $25 to the Youth Center and hereafter will lend its support toward facilities for grammar school children to be used during the summer months.

The nominating committee with Mrs. W. H. Grattan as chairman submitted their candidates for election. The following were elected: Mrs. Walter Williams, president; Mrs. Rex Fuller, 1st vice president; Mrs. John McBain, 2nd vice president; Mrs. E. R. Thompson, 3rd vice president; Mrs. Robert Weaver, secretary; Mrs. Charles Reynolds, treasurer; Mrs. Wayne Lenz, historian; Mrs. C. P. Klassen, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Donald Baldwin, chairman of the day, presented her program. Mrs. Walter Williams spoke on "Safety," the committee's feature which was in keeping with the theme for the day, "Civilian Protection and Responsibility." Mrs. Baldwin gave introductory remarks upon the evils of liquor and what P.-T. A. members could do about it. A scientific picture was shown revealing the effects of alcohol upon the body.

The meeting was adjourned to the cafeteria where 5th and 6th grade mothers were hostesses.

The next meeting will be April 11 at which installation of officers will take place.

Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Hinman are the happy parents of a son born March 6 at Redding, who has been named Roderick Thornton. Mrs. Hinman is the former Ruth Townsend, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Townsend of North Union avenue.

Justus Craemer for U. S. Senator

(Editorial)

This year California will choose a United States senator. For that job we want a man who will have a place among the leaders. A man whose ability, training, knowledge and personality will assure him a place among those who direct legislative policies.

In Justus F. Craemer, California has the ideal man for that job.

Justus Craemer has all the requisites—ability, training, knowledge, personality—that can, and will, assure him and California a place among the leaders that direct national legislation.

He has been a long-time resident of California. The people throughout all the state know him. They know the service he has rendered through a period of years, the last five on the State Railroad commission, of which he is the senior member. They know he represents no special class or interests other than all the people of California.

He has a nationwide acquaintance and his ability is recognized by thousands in every section. At Washington he would not be numbered among the nonentities but his influence and prestige would reflect credit on California.

The Republicans should, and we believe will, nominate him as their choice at the May primaries and the members of all parties will join in assuring his election in November.

Women's Service March 22nd.

The Women's Service Club will meet Wednesday afternoon, March 22, at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Hazel Kennedy on Payne avenue. A pot luck supper will be served at 5 o'clock. Members are to bring their own table service. Anyone needing transportation will call Mrs. Virginia Howard, Campbell 3586.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Snow of Campbell celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Monday, March 6, very quietly, owing to the recent illness of Mrs. Snow. They were entertained at a delightful dinner party at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Paul Frank, after which the play, "This Funny Thing Called Love," was attended by the immediate family.

Campfire Girls Entertain High School P.-T. A.

The recently formed Blue Bird group under the leadership of Mrs. Barbara Knowles Hartman will hold a St. Patrick's day party for the mothers this Friday at 3 o'clock.

The girls will put on a program and serve refreshments.

Officers of the group which has 20 members are Joyce Klassen, president; Doreen Frank, vice president; and Janet Abilgaard, treasurer.

The group's sponsors are Mrs. Paul Frank, chairman; Mrs. J. W. Knowles, Mrs. W. H. Van Dyke, Mrs. David Sanders, Mrs. C. P. Klassen and Mrs. William Abilgaard.

Kiwanians Hear Two Speakers at Tuesday Lunch

Kiwanians were entertained and instructed Tuesday by dual speakers, Ray Oberg and Frank Oster.

Oster is a missionary from Turkey who spoke briefly on his experiences in Persia and Turkey. He stated that the prices of things were inflated due to the lack of imports of materials. He related his difficulties when he was requested to go to Greece in 1941 with relief food and money. Numerous passports were required from the different countries through which he had to pass. He also told of the suffering in Greece.

Ray Oberg, who is administrator of the county gas appliance ordinance discussed the county ordinance regarding improperly installed gas appliances.

Until a year ago there were no restrictions on the installation of these appliances in the unincorporated areas of the county.

Now, with the ordinance, the plumbers or others installing equipment are experienced, and in addition the work is inspected and passed upon by the county inspectors. All appliances sold are reported to the county office and there checked by them.

A victory garden committee of the Kiwanis club was appointed with Joe. V. Gomes as chairman. Plans for this project will be announced later.

Visitors were Joseph McKinnon and Maurice Moore, Jack Burns of Campbell and Frank Oster.

Joseph Agostinho wielded the gavel for the program hour.

Next week there will be a panel discussion by Richard Gordon, Arthur Tindall and Rev. Donald Baldwin with LBen Howard, chairman. The topic, "Postwar Reconstruction."

Red Cross Drive Here Is 'Slowish'

The Red Cross drive began in earnest this past week but returns are not coming in in sums adequate to meet the quota of $4500.

A "thermometer" has been prepared by E. E. Lanphear to register the collections. To Wednesday night $1350 had been reported, which is not a third of the quota as yet.

The many vital services rendered by the Red Cross to both service men and civilians alike have been so eloquently presented over the radio and in print that little more is left to say or should need be said for such a cause.

Ada Rebekah lodge will meet March 21 at 7:30 instead of 8 o'clock due to drill practice immediately after lodge. The officers and members of degree staff are urged to be present. The members are asked to bring all their surplus coffee jars to lodge for a coffee jar drive.

62nd Wedding Anniversary Celebrated

The 62nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Schwab, which occurred on March 2, was celebrated at their home on San Tomas road on Sunday afternoon, March 5, when some 90 relatives and friends came to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Schwab and help them celebrate this unusual occasion.

All of the immediate family were present with the exception of Donald Schwab in foreign service with the navy, Miss Margaret Hill, employed by the Basic Magnesium company in Las Vegas, Nev., Jack Stewart of Live Oak, and Sgt. Charles J. Trammell, stationed in Missouri.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schwab and son Stephen Henry, and Mrs. Donald Schwab of Dinuba; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Zarcone and son Ronald of Fresno; Mrs. Jack Stewart and daughter Mrs. Charles J. Trammell and little Gail Trammell of Orange Cove; Mrs. Frances Hill and daughter Franceen of Los Angeles; and Mrs. Luella Ryan of Campbell and son James Wilson Ryan, Ph. M. 2/c, stationed on Treasure Island.

The house was beautifully decorated with bouquets of lovely spring flowers, the gifts of friends. The ideal weather and the blossoming orchards surrounding the home also lent to the festive atmosphere.

A very interesting and appropriate program was given to honor Mr. and Mrs. Schwab, which included a number of trumpet selections by Frank Shepherd, Harold Nelson and Edar Hillman; a vocal number, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," by Mrs. Grace Cole of San Jose; a group of old songs by Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Mitchell of Willow Glen; a humorous reading, "The Honor of the Family," by Mrs. Nellie Rutherford; a medley of old songs by David Rutherford; a toast to the honored couple by William C. Harvey of Santa Cruz.

VICTORY GARDENS

In spite of the fact that many Americans found victory gardening a matter of toil and sweat along with a few tears when things occasionally didn't turn out so well as expected, Uncle Sam is going to have more recruits for the "backyard battalion" this year than last.

Large seed companies report the demand for vegetable seeds is heavier and earlier than a year ago. The National Victory Garden conference has set a goal of 22 million gardens—an increase of two million over 1943.

Although aware that many families still have supplies of canned goods on hand from last year's efforts, the United States Department of Agriculture points out the urgency of raising as much this season as possible. The food raised at home will guard against shortages that might arise from crop failures in any of the various agricultural sections of the country.

Victory gardeners should profit by the experience of last year and plan to stagger their crops so that there will be an even flow of produce over a longer period—rather than too much of certain foods at one time. So right now is the time to plan your victory garden and "dig in" to your task.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

If good St. Patrick, who expelled "all venomous creatures from Irish soil 1500 years ago, were on deck now, he would find more of the same, overrunning much of Europe and Asia. What he would be disposed to do about it is a question, but that his early experience would be helpful is certain.

All the civilized world now struggling against tyranny of the Axis would be grateful for the aid of St. Patrick's Ireland in the conflict. Many Irishmen of this country who waded into the war with both fists figuratively flying, are debating the wisdom of Ireland's aloofness. For a part of their hearts still buried in the sod of the Emerald Isle feels some anxiety over the possible future disapproval of other nations who joined the battle for better or for worse.

Despite all the political repercussions now or later, on this March 17 anniversary of their patron, old world disciples of St. Patrick cannot fail to regret that they are missing out today on the biggest fight in the history of the world.

YOUR VACATION—VICTORY STYLE

People lucky enough to rate vacations in wartime, even week-end sojourns, are being asked now to consider spending them in the fields, making crops for Uncle Sam.

Last year the harvest work done by vacationists made the vast difference between short rations and sufficient food for 10 million men in uniform, 120,000,000 civilians and our tremendous lend-lease obligations. Women volunteers alone performed ten per cent of the huge task.

The need is even greater this year, for the draft has made depleting inroads on the farm labor supply. As harvest season rolls around people with time on their hands are going to feel uneasier than ever about spending it for their own amusement when many of their sons and brothers overseas haven't had a letup in the toil and strain of war for 18 months and longer.

True, vacations in the field and orchard will not pay big cash returns. But the dividends in health and in that comfortable feeling that comes with performing a patriotic stint, are rewards that no amount of coin can buy.

SHALL WE CEASE BOMBING BERLIN?

As the news comes through of mounting destruction in Berlin, protests, on humanitarian grounds, are heard against the "obliteration bombing" now in progress.

It is not a pleasant task, to be sure, to have to defend the inhuman practices of war. It is not pleasant to have to maintain that the heavy shelling of an enemy city, killing and crippling its civilian population, is right or just. There is little in the processes of war that is either right, just or humanitarian. And it is horrifying to know our sons must learn the ugly business of waging such a conflict.

But when the undefended city of Rotterdam was bombed nearly out of existence as an "example" to the world; when the first "fire blitz" of the war was loosed on English cities with the announced intention of bringing Britain to her knees, Hitler made very clear the fate he had in mind for all who opposed him.

Only one consideration outweighs the natural repulsion of all decent people against "obliteration" bombing of cities. That is the certain knowledge that unless the enemy can be eliminated in his own strongholds, we shall certainly be in ours.

THE TIME TO SPEAK

In less than eight months the American people must make one of the greatest political decisions in their history. Their vote in early November will not only determine the occupant of the White House for the next four years, but probably the course of the nation for the next half century.

If there ever was a time when the people needed to know the views and convictions of those who seek —or may be nominated to—the presidency, that time is now.

Yet, only one Republican leader—Wendell Willkie —has devlared his position clearly and unmistakably both as to his candidacy and as to the major issues confronting the nation. Professional politicians may feel that he is not "playing the game"—of politics. But Mr. Willkie is a candid individual who says what he thinks and thinks what he says.

Those who are obviously candidates for the nomination of either party may think themselves politically sagacious when they indulge in "brilliant evasions" about their candidacy, or speak of national problems in vague generalities. But in so doing they are either deliberately or unconsciously putting their own interests ahead of the national welfare.

In view of the vital decision lying ahead of the American people, now is the time for candidates to speak with more candor and less cleverness.

POST-WAR JOBS

According to a recent Gallup poll, one of the big questions which people are asking is: Will there be jobs for all of us after the war?

The man who could answer that question with absolute assurance does not exist. But there are many indications that post-war industry will have jobs for a great number of people who are now in the armed forces or engaged in war work. On example is that of the recent survey of the California retail field—a survey which resulted in an estimate that 200,000 people could be absorbed into this industry when the war is over if sales volume is maintained at least on par with the 1940 level.

Although California's population has increased one million in the past four years, we have hardly more than 175,000 retail stores as against 203,000 in 1940. Thus on the basis of the ratio of stores to population in 1940, there appears to be room for 60,000 more retail outlets of all kinds, which it is estimated would require 200,000 people to operate.

The increase in population in California has thrust upon businessmen a greater task in serving the needs of the public. The fulfillment of this task will continue to require large-scale operations in practically all lines of business, just as the war crisis showed the necessity for large-scale operations to meet the great demands of our military machine.

The dropping of war restrictions on business as soon as they can be dispensed with, together with the speedy reconversion to peacetime products will aid the expansion of private enterprise to meet the pent-up civilian needs and at the same time give employment to returning servicemen and those now engaged in war work.

State's Future Farmers Produce Huge Quantities

San Luis Obispo—Evidence of the millions of pounds of food produced by Future Farmers of America in California last year was revealed this week in the announcement of the winners of a "food for victory" contest sponsored by a commercial firm.

The seven winning FFA chapters which shared more than $660 in prize money for producing the most food per Future Farmer, in order, were San Benito high school at Hollister; Coast union at Cambria, Tranquillity, Gilroy, Caruthers, Petaluma and Orland. Prizes ranged from $175 to $25.

The total production in the state was calculated by the actual reports of the 49 chapters competing. Since these were average chapters well-distributed throughout the state, and represent about one-fourth of the total, the statewide production was reached by multiplying the known totals by four.

On this basis, FFA in California produced in 1943 about 14 million pounds of milk, a million pounds of poultry, a million dozen eggs, four million pounds of pork, nearly two million of beef, a half-million pounds of veal, the same of lamb, 10 million pounds of tomatoes, three million of potatoes, a half-million of dry beans, and almost four million pounds of dried fruits and raisins.

Boys in California vocational agriculture classes tended 18 million square feet of home garden, and produced 800,000 pounds of carrots, cabbage, sweet corn and lima beans. They produced 400,000 pounds of flax and six million pounds of barley and other small grains. They grew 250 tons of sugar beets and 4000 tons of hay. Grapes and miscellaneous truck crops each totaled nearly a million pounds.

Smaller totals were amassed in the production of turkeys, rabbits, dry peas, peanuts, berries, citrus fruits, seeds, rice, honey, olives, walnuts and almonds. Nearly a half-million pounds of cottonseed were produced in FFA cotton projects.

The Campbell Union High school chapter of FFA participated in the competition.

More Meat for The Table—Pork

More meat this month for Mrs. America's family to sink their teeth into, but more than half of it is pork. The outlook is good for bacon and eggs—what with most popular bacon cuts at one ration point per pound and egg prices continuing at low levels. Butter point values remain unchanged—still 16 per pound—but lard has been removed from the ration list for the month of March. The current point chart lists lard at three points per pound but all dealers have been asked to make the correction. The chart was printed before the war food administration advised OPA that the amount of lard available for civilians would permit it to be point free this month.

Shoe Stamp 18 Good to April 30

If you haven't used Shoe Stamp No. 18 in Ration Book One, you have until April 30 before it expires. As soon as Stamp 18 expires the OPA will validate another shoe stamp on May 1 to be good indefinitely. Meantime, airplane stamp no. 1 in ration book 3, which is good now, will continue to be valid indefinitely.

62nd Anniversary

Mr. Schwab responded with a few words and Mrs. Schwab with a song. Mrs. David Rutherford was the accompanist of the afternoon.

An outstanding feature of the affair was the number of gold wedding friends among the invited guests who were able to attend with a few exceptions. They were Mr. and Mrs. George Whipple, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Stoller of Campbell; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Jensen, Mrs. George Minges, Mr. F. D. Ancutt of Willow Glen, and Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Hollingsworth of San Jose. Specially honored were Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Ross, close neighbors, who celebrated their 62nd anniversary in January, and Mrs. C. F. Stowe of Cupertino, a friend over 90 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwab, both well along in their 80's, have many relatives who have celebrated their golden weddings.

Other Campbell people present were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond De Selle, Mr. and Mrs. James Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Carlson, Mrs. Anna Sawyer and Mrs. Metta Rudy.

Better Endorse Your Gas Coupons

Possession by a motorist of either unendorsed or detached gas coupons will result in the issuance of a citation to appear before a price and rationing board, George Moncharsh, district enforcement officer for OPA announced today in launching a checkup drive which will center in gas stations throughout the sixteen counties of the San Francisco district.

Regular checks of motorists will be made at all gas stations, wherein the drivers will be asked by investigators to show their gas coupon books. Refusal by the motorist to produce coupon books will constitute a violation of the rationing regulations, it was pointed out.

"Investigators must identify themselves, and in return the full cooperation of the motorist is expected," said Moncharsh. "This is not a policing campaign, but one to stimulate education and understanding of the vital need for drivers to comply with the simple rules and thus break up the black market operation in gas coupons," he stated.

Members and employees of price and ration boards, OPA investigators, and police departments are the only persons authorized to inspect coupon books.

Anderson Works To Get S. S. for Packing Industry

Moving to end the confusion which has existed in the California dried fruit packing industry since the passage of social security legislation, Congressman Jack Anderson, this district's representative in Washington, has introduced a bill in the congress to include packing industry employes in the federal social security program. The bill is now before the house ways and means committee for action.

Anderson declared that so much confusion has existed in the packing industry, and so many regulations have been issued by the social security board and the internal revenue bureau, that the industry was in a daze. The legislation, if adopted by the congress, will become effective immediately, and will permit all packing employees to enjoy the benefits of social security, he pointed out.

Both the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organization, Anderson declared, have asked the congress to adopt the measure which he introduced. The congressman said he anticipated no opposition to the bill.

Friday morning, March 17, St. Patrick's day, Anderson will be heard on the air at 10:15 over station KQW.

Mrs. Hattie A. Baugh and John Church received word Wednesday of the death of their brother, Arthur Church, in Richmond. Funeral services will be held Friday.

Nelson Eddy to Draw Capacity Crowd March 21

Nelson Eddy's recital for the San Jose Concert series in the San Jose auditorium on next Tuesday evening, March 21, is drawing a more than capacity audience. The adored star of concert and screen has a record of achievement rarely equalled, starting from an obscure and unheralded beginning. From his success in "Naughty Marietta" in 1935, Nelson Eddy has grown in popularity and mature artistry, until he is one of the greatest "box office" artists of the period. With Theodore Paxon, pianist, playing his accompaniments and a group of solos as well, Mr. Eddy will sing an Aria from "Eugene Onegin," Tschaikowsky; The Demon's Song from "The Demon," Rubinstein; Who is Sylvia, Schubert; The Dream, Rubinstein; Blessed Night, Marx; The Disappointed Serenader, Brahms; My Heart's in the Highlands, Jensen; Variations in B flat, Nocturne in B major, Ballade in A flat, Chopin, Mr. Paxon; Aria from "Patrie," Paladilhe; Si tu veux, Mignonne, Massenet; Clair de lune, Faure; Aux portes de Seville, Fourdrain; Windy Nights, Edmonds; Troubador's Serenade, Krumbein; King Billy's Song, James; My Parting Gift, Elinor Warren.

The greatest singing actor since Chaliapin, Baccaloni will sing the role of Dr. Bartola in "The Barber of Seville," Rossini's comic opera, on Friday evening, March 24. Baccaloni is the basso buffo of the Metropolitan Opera and will sing in San Jose the full role exactly as at "The Met," giving "An evening of laughter that will not be forgotten soon," according to a New York critic. Baccaloni's phenomenal success is due entirely to his compelling personality, rare genius and incomparable artistry. Not since the early 19th century—about 1825—has there been a basso buffo to equal him.

Tickets for both events are on sale at the Denny-Watrous box office, Columbia 7087.

Mrs. W. C. Bryant of San Jose, a recent resident of Campbell suffered a second heart attack a short time ago and is confined to her bed.

Small Farms

Steep mountain slopes leave less than a fifth of Japan's main islands available for farming. Averaging less than three acres, farms are intensively cultivated by hand. The output of rice per acre has been increased to twice that of Java or the United States, but food imports have been rising to meet a growing population.

Grease Ways

Greasing the ways to permit thousands of tons of steel to slide smoothly into the water requires about 45 tons of a special grease, compounded for that express purpose—if the ship is a battleship. Once when a surplus of overripe bananas were a disposal problem in one port, they were used to grease the ways—and worked excellently, too.

Safety Topic Discussed at High School P.T.A.

A large group attended the meeting of the Campbell High School P.-T. A. in the little theater on Wednesday, March 8 at 2:30 p. m. with Mrs. H. F. Cousins presiding.

The meeting was opened by the singing of the national anthem.

Mrs. Oliver Price, chairman of the day, introduced Mrs. Laura Sparaccia and her Campfire Girls. The girls entertained with songs, dances, and recitations which were greatly enjoyed.

The chairmen of various committees made their reports; Mrs. J. W. Knowles, representative in the youth Council reported on the progress of the Youth center. A second donation was made by the unit for the center.

Mrs. W. F. Grattan urgently asked that all members bring newspapers and magazines to the bus garage so that the paper drive can be completed soon.

Mr. W. H. Van Dyke made the announcement that Public Schools week would be celebrated the last week in April but that no definite plans had been announced.

He also displayed a huge pile of articles the students had lost during the year and that had not been claimed; everything from gym shoes to jackets.

Mrs. Carl Field read the names the nominating committee presented, after which they were elected:

Mrs. Clarence Fagalde, president; Mrs. Earl Booker, 1st vice president; Miss Mary Lewis, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Ray Flagg, secretary; Mrs. Mary Dennis, treasurer; Mrs. G. E. Jeffers, auditor; Mrs. W. H. Van Dyke, financial secretary; Mrs. W. H. Grattan, historian; Mrs. H. F. Cousins, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Price then introduced the speaker of the day, W. S. Jennings, who gave an enlightening talk on the juvenile problem in Santa Clara county, answering many questions. His main theme was that the juvenile court and probation officers have not only to study the young offender's environment and past behavior, but they also have to try to bring out their best qualities. They sometimes have to place the child with those persons who are specially trained to take care of them. He said the successes far outnumbered the failures, making the work of the probation officer interesting and worth-while.

Mrs. Clarence Fagalde, program chairman, thanked Mrs. Price and the Cambrian Home and School club for their entertainment and attendance.
